Call for Presenters at Conference for Professionals Supporting Families across NJ

New Brunswick, NJ- Prevent Child Abuse – New Jersey has released a call for workshop presenters to provide professional education and skill-building sessions for 250 family workers, home visitors, supervisors and teen parents who will attend a conference held at Mercer County College on May 29, 2009. The conference, entitled "Strengthening Those Who Touch the Lives of Children", will gather the men and women working in prevention programs across New Jersey. Interested presenters may download an application of the Call for Presenters at www.preventchildabusejnj.org or call 1-800-CHILDREN for more information.

Conference workshops will emphasize skill-building for professionals, and presenters are invited around a wide variety of topics, including but not limited to: positive discipline strategies, parent-child interaction, personal safety/self defense, empowering adolescent parents, human resources, infant mental health, team building, supervision, fundraising, ethics, violence prevention and stress management. The day is planned as a professional development conference for the hundreds of dedicated professionals who work tirelessly on behalf of children each day.

Prevent Child Abuse – New Jersey is a nonprofit organization leading statewide efforts to eliminate child abuse in all of its forms. Learn more about how you can get involved with the organization by calling 1-800-CHILDREN or visiting www.preventchildabusejnj.org.
