

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Theresa McCutcheon

Phone: (732) 246-8060 x123

E-Mail: tmccutcheon@preventchildabusenj.org

Wednesday, July 28, 2010

Cape May Home Visitor Receives Inspiration Award New Brunswick, NJ –

Prevent Child Abuse-New Jersey presented home visitor Charline McVey of the Cape May Healthy Families-TIP program with the “Inspiration Award” at the 8th annual “Strengthening Those Who Touch the Lives of Children” conference on Thursday, May 6, 2010. This recognition was made in honor of her commitment to providing families with the skills and resources they need to raise happy, healthy, and safe children.

The “Inspiration Award” is given to a home visitor who inspires and motivates others through their positive energy, optimism, and influence. McVey has served as this inspiration to her community by setting an example as a foster and then adoptive parent. McVey teaches “safe-sitters” classes to teens at a local hospital and serves as a cheerleading coach. She was selected for the award because she consistently models, as a trainer and mentor to new staff, the importance of quality and dedication.

The Healthy Families-TIP and Parent Linking Program networks, both programs of Prevent Child Abuse-New Jersey, joined together for a one-day conference to celebrate the parents and professionals throughout New Jersey and recognize the important work of those who influence the healthy development of children.

The 8th annual “Strengthening Those Who Touch the Lives of Children” conference commenced with a keynote address from Judge Glenda A. Hatchett, renowned in the legal community for her innovative courtroom style.

Learn more about Prevent Child Abuse-New Jersey’s commitment to keeping children safe, healthy and nurtured and the organization’s home visitation networks at www.preventchildabusenj.org.

